Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 23 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Winds easing, mostly clear and dry.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry with largely clear skies and light winds overnight, which may allow some isolated patches of mist and fog to form in rural areas towards dawn. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Friday:
A bright start for most, but it will soon become rather cloudy with some patchy light rain and drizzle possible across the Peak District. Breezy, particularly over higher ground. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Largely dry with bright spells Saturday. Sunny spells and a few showers Sunday. A band of heavy rain and strong winds moving eastwards overnight, clearing to further heavy showers Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.